

Workers Uniting

The world's first global trade union with over 2.5 million members in the United States, Canada, England and Ireland

Stands in Solidarity with the Brave Garment Workers of Bangladesh

in their call for Justice Now!

A new minimum wage of
Not one taka less than 5,000!

Respect for the legal right to organize!

Workers Uniting supports the very modest demand of Bangladesh's garment workers for a minimum wage of at least 5,000 taka a month. There is not a clothing company in America or Europe that could not easily afford to pay 5,000 taka.

Bangladesh's three and a half million garment workers, who are among the hardest workers in the world, deserve justice and to raise their families in dignity.

Our vision is to unify workers in the western developed economies with our sisters and brothers across Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Over two thousand people across America and the United Kingdom have signed this petition.

Leo Gerard, President of the United Steelworkers Union

Derek Simpson and Tony Woodley, Joint General Secretary of Unite-the-Union

Charles Kernaghan, Director, Global Institute for Labour & Human Rights

Stephen Davison, Unite-the-Union; Gordon Roddick, Ron Lynn, President, Sue Burger, Treasurer and Richard McGettigan, Financial Secretary, USW Local 8567; Chris Matheson, UNITE-the-Union; Fr. Mark Hallinan, Society of Jesus; Mary Frances Reidell, Carlow University; Lillian Lanca, University of Toronto; Nemesio Rodriguez, México Nación Multicultural –UNAM; Maureen Sheahan, SE Labor Management; David Newby, Wisconsin State AFL-CIO... ..and over 2,000 more...